Title: Kronos' Journal

Author: Kronos the Controller

All is going according to plan. None suspects a thing about our intent to restructure and strengthen our warriors. The new model of Betrayer and Juggernaut we have been assembling is better than expected. In fact, we are ahead of our time with these masterpieces. They far surpass golems, though we continue to rely on them for brute strength as gaurds. Daklon says there is a chance of failure if any of our enemies get wind of this. I say it is too late for them. Zelik and I have been working around the clock to restore all of us to power. I feel all will fall into our hands, as expected.
